Find the int value of the non-consecutive nodes in the graph There is an adjacency matrix of a graph G that has some nonconsecutive nodes. i.e. only some nodes are connected. I need to find a method to find the int value of the non-consecutive nodes in the graph G. I need the non-consecutive nodes. For example, the adjacency matrix of a graph G is like: 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 The non-consecutive nodes in the graph G are 3 and 4. A: This is called the spectral radius of the adjacency matrix of the graph. There are efficient algorithms to calculate this. You can find more info here: 82157476af
